

5

Jet Sizes to Match Your Golf Luggage

1. Very Light Jets: For Small Trips

Very light jets can work for golf travel when the group is small, and you pack with discipline, typically fitting two golf bags and a couple of small suitcases comfortably. Adding more can lead to tight baggage space and limited access.

2. Light Jets: More Space for Small Travel

Light jets are a common choice for short domestic golf trips and generally have enough space for three or sometimes four golf bags with additional luggage. They offer more confidence and flexibility for slightly longer trips or extra passengers.

3. Midsize Jets: The Sweet Spot for Medium-size Groups

Midsize jets offer a larger baggage area, comfortable cabin, and enough range for longer domestic flights, fitting four golf bags easily and sometimes five. They keep trips feeling effortless with room to relax or work.

4. Super-Midsize Jets: Comfortably Large

Super-midsize jets provide more baggage capacity and cabin space, typically carrying five to six golf bags comfortably without stress. This is where planning becomes simple again for larger groups.

5. Large Cabin Jets: When You Want Comfort and Zero Baggage Stress

Large cabin jets handle six to eight golf bags easily and support longer flights with added comfort and workspace functionality. They are ideal for larger groups or combining golf with business travel.

